Greenwood, Indiana (November 11, 2010) - The Indiana Golf Course Owners Association has announced recipients of the 2011 Indiana Golf Course of the Year Award. Cozy Acres Golf Complex in Madison is the Indiana Golf Course of the Year in the nine hole category.

The Award was announced during a presentation at the Association's annual meeting at Valle Vista Conference Center in Greenwood, Indiana and was accepted by course co-owner Trevor Crafton. Walnut Creek Golf Course in Marion was named Indiana Course of the Year in the 18 hole category.

The Course of the Year Award honors a member demonstrating four criteria:

- Exceptional quality of the course
- Exceptional quality of ownership and management
- Outstanding contribution to its community
- Significant contribution to the game

The Course of the Year Award winner comes from the Indiana Golf Course Owners Association's core membership, and is chosen from those which make an outstanding contribution to the game in their markets, and are model operations to their peers.

Cozy Acres Golf Course opened in 1994 and plays to 1,045 yards from the longest tees for a par of 27. The nine hole course was designed by William W. Garrett. The facility is owned and managed by Trevor and Sara Crafton and Trevor's parents, Dale and Kathy Crafton. The ownership team operates with a business plan and mission statement to manage growth and develop. Cozy Acres features a heated, covered driving range, 18 hole miniature golf, club fitting and repair, and a fully stocked pro shop with club house. Two PGA pros on staff and three teaching professionals instruct over 500 private, junior camps and clinics each year. Cozy Acres has partnered with King's Daughters Hospital, Big Brothers/Big Sisters and Safe Zone for Kids to provide golf clubs to under privileged children and families, and provide opportunities for juniors and women.

Cozy Acres is open year-round with seasonal hours and is located at 4040 Old State Road 62 in Madison, Indiana.

The Indiana Golf Course Owners Association's purpose is to promote the growth of golf and safeguard the common business interests of the golf course industry in Indiana and its golf-related operations. Indiana is one of 36 chapters affiliated with the National Golf Course Owners Association.
